A live on-stage conversation with UD history professor Adam Rome followed by audience Q&A

Dr. Richard Alley has ranged from Antarctica to Greenland to help learn the history of Earth's climate and whether the great ice sheets will fall into the ocean and flood our coasts. With over 225 scientific publications, he has been asked to provide advice to the highest levels of government and has been recognized with numerous awards including election to the U.S. National Academy of Sciences. He hosted the recent PBS miniseries Earth: The Operators' Manual and has been compared to a cross between Woody Allen and Carl Sagan for his enthusiastic efforts to communicate the excitement and importance of science to everyone.
